

Frazer admires Nutman's Style

By SHAYNE O'CASS

HAWKESBURY trainer Garry Frazer has paid third year apprentice Claire Nutman the ultimate show of faith by rewarding her with two of the leading chances across the entire Civic Stakes card at Rosehill tomorrow.

Frazer and Nutman have quickly established a mutually successful partnership with a growing tally of winners including with handy mare Campania who towelled up her rivals at Wyong this time last week.

The trend is set to continue as the pair up the ante with stable heavyweights Sheer Style and Hurrara in action at the Gardens this weekend.

"She rode Sheer Style perfect at Kensington first-up and she rode her in both of her trials leading up to that and she does most of the gallops on the horse in the mornings when he gallops," Frazer said. "And I like to think that you can reward apprentices every now and then."

Sheer Style's presence in the TAB Early Quaddie Handicap (1200m) ensures an intriguing start to the day's proceedings with the flashy chestnut looking to repeat her all-the-way 3.5-lens win on Randwick's inner-track from June 9.

The only chink in an otherwise bullet-proof armour is the 1200m distance, but Frazer has no doubt that she will run the trip to its fullest.

"No, none at all," he said.

"Ideally, one day I would love to see her ridden with a 'sit' in a race because she has got a really good turn of foot to go from one gear to the next very quickly, so it would be nice to see her in a race where something (else) could lead and she could get a sit behind."

Later in the day, Nutman will change into the famous white, purple star and hooped sleeves worn by such famous gallopers as Triscay, Filante, Eremein and Marscay when she is legged aboard the White family favourite, Hurrara.

The six-year-old son of Hussonet blotted an otherwise exemplary copybook when trailing the field home in the June Stakes at Randwick four weeks ago.

"He hit himself behind in the pastern and pulled up a little bit sore," Frazer explained, adding, "He's back to his normal self."

"He's won up to 1200m but 1100m is his best distance and he will be hard to beat."

Hurrara has won a total of eight races in his career, six of those over 1100m.
